

BOYS' CHIEFS ADDRESS SCHOOLS

Plead For Support In Effort to Raise $30,000 For Work in Washington.

Preparations for the three-day campaign to raise $30,000 for the Boy Scout movement in Washington were continued today by W. J. B. Housman, national field executive, who addressed the student bodies of several graded schools this afternoon. Yesterday he spoke to the students at Western High School and Carberry, and Peabody graded schools. H. M. Butler, Mr. Housman's assistant, also spoke at Carberry and Peabody.

The purpose of the campaign is to raise $30,000 for the Boy Scout movement in Washington. The money will be used for the purchase of uniforms, equipment, and for the maintenance of the movement.

"You are all familiar with the Boy Scout movement and especially its relationship to the institutions of your city," said Mr. Housman.

"As a movement it contains a program that can properly fit the boyhood and young manhood of all institutions. It produces a maximum efficiency at a minimum cost so that they become men of physical, mental and moral power able to supplement all features of our every program."

"It is a safeguard, so wisely nourished in the instincts of adolescent boy life that during the entire period of construction, a destructive program fails to find a place."

"It supplies incentives so developed that the natural and not the artificial become a threshold of thought."

"It furnishes vocational guidance, properly adjusted, so that the instincts of the boy will reveal the true meaning of his life."

"There are in the city of Washington today over 1,300 registered Boy Scouts. Institutions of all kinds are anxious and willing to make possible in the boy life a realization of the possibilities of his being."

"Over 250 men are actively engaged in volunteer leadership. Over 100,000 boys are tied up definitely to the movement in North America. This movement has passed through its infancy and is now in its maturity. There are 8,000,000 more of scout age in North America."

"The Local Council, Boy Scouts of America, are going to raise $30,000 on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, November 22, 23, and 24, for the purpose of making possible the scout program in the lives of over 500 boys in your city. Your interest is solicited for the purpose of announcing the above fact to your congregation."

Second West Point For Negro Officers Is Urged

Establishment of a second West Point for the education and training of colored officers, as a part of the preparedness program, and the utilization of Howard University for this purpose, is being urged upon Washington officials by E. H. Hayes, of 1347 T street, northwest.

Hayes interviewed Secretary Garrison on the subject, and was informed that the Secretary of War had no objection to the plan. Hayes expects to take the matter up with Assistant Secretary of the Interior, Matthew C. Nease, in his return to Washington Thursday or Friday.

It is declared that there are millions of negroes in the United States who are able for military service, who should be trained under colored officers.

THE BROKEN COIN

By EMERSON HOUGH.

In this strained moment Count Sachio of Grahoffen made good his promise to his king—he fought in the front rank of his own troops, and not even the jealous eyes of Cortislaw himself could find fault with his courage or his judgment. He himself led the last assault against the walls, which finally broke through the outer defenses. The forces of Grahoffen advanced so rapidly that it seemed, indeed, as though Cortislaw would make good his threat to leave standing not one stone upon another in this capital of his enemy.

This was Sachio's opportunity, and he knew it. It was his crucial hour. He thought even more potent than his ambition for military glory still ruled the soul of this warlike nobleman. Sachio thought that he might gain one thing—the treasures of the king, buried deep somewhere in this citadel. That treasure was the cause of this war. Without its discovery the war itself was worthless.

He stole away from the head of his troops as finally they broke in among the shrubbery of the palace gardens—yet not having met the encounter of the ambushed troops of Grahoffen, he felt that he had been deceived. He had been deceived for the purpose of the orders of Count Frederick himself.

He made his way up the palace stairs, for he had heard that the king's treasure was hidden in the palace. He had heard that the king's treasure was hidden in the palace. He had heard that the king's treasure was hidden in the palace.

He made his way up the palace stairs, for he had heard that the king's treasure was hidden in the palace. He had heard that the king's treasure was hidden in the palace. He had heard that the king's treasure was hidden in the palace.
